ELVAL awarded an honor by the University of the Aegean for the corporate responsibility and sustainable development report of 2010

ELVAL S.A. was awarded an Honor by the University of the Aegean for the Assessment of Corporate Responsibility and Sustainable Development Report of 2010. ELVAL published this year (for the third time) the Assessment of Corporate Responsibility and Sustainable Development Report, consistent in its choice that Corporate Responsibility and the principles of Sustainable Development are concepts strongly coupled with her strategic development planning. The award concerned the high record of Assessment of the CSR 2010 Report regarding the successful application of the international reference standard CSR GRI-G3 Global Reporting Initiative (GRI) and, in particular, the incorporation of elements of corporate governance, the thorough documentation of stakeholders, the coverage of basic environmental and social performance indicators and the third-party evaluation of the extent of GRI implementation.

The results of the Greek CSR Reports evaluations for 2010 were announced at a special event of the "CSR Reporting Forum 2011", held in Athens on November 22nd and organized by the company Sustainable Development. The ex-dean of the University of the Aegean, Mr. Constantinos Sofoulis awarded the prizes to the highest ranking companies.

The last few years, the University of the Aegean (Centre for Environmental Policy and Strategic Environmental Management), under Assistant Professor Konstantinos I. Evangelinos, has been performing an evaluation study of the CSR and Sustainable Development Reports issued in Greece. The evaluation methodology is based on the GRI-G3 specifications, regarding compliance with the 119 indicators as well as coverage of the principles of CSR: information materiality, information credibility, stakeholder identification and engagement practices and the extent of SCR incorporation to the vision and strategy of each company.

The Global Reporting Initiative (GRI) is a non-profit organization that promotes economic sustainability. It publishes the GRI-G3 guidelines, one of the world's most prevalent standard for sustainability reporting. The GRI-G3 reporting framework, consists of specific quantitative and qualitative indicators that should be publicized in CSR Reports, related to the financial environmental and social performance of organizations.
