ELVAL to participate in the Hellenic Aluminium Exhibition

ELVAL announces its participation in the 11th "HELLENIC ALUMINIUM" exhibition which is organized by the Aluminium Association of Greece. The exhibition will be held from 18 to 21 April 2013 at METROPOLITAN EXPO, the largest and most modern exhibition centre of Athens, conveniently located next to "Eleftherios Venizelos" International Airport.

The core objective of the exhibition is to offer innovating and integrated solutions to residential consumers, to support engineers and architects with specialized solutions and services, to support environmental protection, recycling and sustainable development, and finally to promote high quality, certified Greek products. "HELLENIC ALUMINIUM" will take place simultaneously and in the same venue with associated technical-consumer exhibitions:

ECOTEC - Environmental Technologies & Photovoltaic Systems
DOMICATEC - Building & Renovating.

The "HELLENIC ALUMINIUM" exhibition brings together the leading companies in production, manufacturing and marketing of aluminium products, machinery and services, covering the current needs of the end consumer and the professional. It is, therefore, a great opportunity to highlight ELVAL's range of services (that include Research and Development, Technical Support and Consultancy) addressing its extended product range which includes:

- Plain sheets, coils and circles
- Coated sheets and coils for architectural applications
- Strips for heat exchangers
- Magnesium alloy sheets for marine, automotive and rail applications
- Tread plates and bright sheets
- Sheets and strips for food, beverage and food cans
- ETALBOND – ELVAL ENF

Last but not least, recycling is a key pillar of sustainable development. ELVAL promotes aluminium recycling in Greece and strives to use scrap aluminium as feed material in its production process. ELVAL makes a sustained effort to promote recycling in Greece. It operates the pioneering Aluminium Can Recycling Centre (CANAL).

ELVAL's Stand location is in Hall 1/Corridor D/Stand Number 4
